Staff Correspondent Visited
Prayer Meeting to Run
Down Quarry

Bennington was the storm center for Metropolitan newspapers last evening under the supposition that Mrs. Corinne Roosevelt Robinson, who had started the country by divulging portions of a letter from President Harding which touched upon the recent elections and their bearing upon the future of the Volstead act was either in Bennington or on her way here.

John C. Cray, legislative staff correspondent for the New York Herald and Tribune, who had been wired from New York that Mrs. Robinson had been seen to buy a ticket at the Grand Central station for Bennington, the New York Herald was exceedingly anxious to publish the contents of that letter which Mrs. Robinson had steadfastly refused to part with.

No one in Bennington had heard of Mrs. Robinson or could give the newspaperman any information. One of the places visited was the chapel of the Second Congregational church where the pastor, Rev. George S. Mills, was in charge of the weekly prayer meeting. At the time of Mr. Cray's arrival, Mrs. H. T. Southall was speaking and the pastor noticed that the young man concentrated his gaze in her direction. At the close of the meeting the newspaperman stated his business to Mr. Mills who at once concluded that the stranger must have imagined he had found the object of his quest in Mrs. Southall.

Mrs. Robinson did not come to Bennington. Instead she went to Binghamton, N. Y. A mistake at the Grand Central station by a person who misunderstood Binghamton for Bennington, sent the newspaperman on a wild goose chase and kept the telegraph wires hot during the entire evening.

CONFIRMED BAD MAN
GIVEN TEN YEARSFormer Inmate of New Hampshire
Prison Sentenced to Windsor
For Long Term.

Montpelier, Nov. 16.—Victor Smith was taken to Windsor yesterday afternoon by Sheriff Frank Tracy to begin serving a term of not less than nine years and six months nor more than 10 years for assault with a dangerous weapon on Mrs. Ella Bailey with intent to rob. Smith was sentenced by Judge Frank L. Fish in Washington county on his plea of guilty.

Mrs. Bailey, who is 63 years of age and Mrs. C. L. Slack, whose home in Berlin Smith admitted breaking into, were in the court room. The assault on Mrs. Bailey was perpetrated November 8 when she was bound and tied to her bed and the house ransacked. Smith was arrested two days later in Barre and his loot was found in his room.

State's Attorney Charles B. Adams said in his statement to the court that Mrs. Bailey claimed a criminal assault which Smith denied. The state's attorney said that the state preferred to accept the plea of guilty to the lesser crime rather than to go to the expense of a trial. Smith has been identified by Mrs. Orrin Lambert of Williamstown as the man who tried to assault her at her home, and he is suspected of four or five other crimes in Washington and Orange counties.

ANNUAL MEETING

Bennington Post, No. 13, American Legion, Monday Night

There will be the annual meeting of the local post, on Monday, November 20th, at 7:30 o'clock in the evening. The first part of the meeting will be taken up with the reading of reports, running up the work of the post for the past year, and the election of officers for the coming twelve months. Following this there will be a rousing time, an old fashioned smoker, local talent, and "eats". The committee in charge have endeavored to make this meeting a success. Their hopes will be realized when they find that all the members are present.

From one of our members fresh from the New Orleans national convention and from the delegates from St. Johnsbury's convention, "the Buddies" will learn at first hand the work of the American Legion throughout the state and nation.

This meeting will be held at the Post Headquarters in the Hawks block on Main street.

AUTO BANDIT WHO
'WORKED' VERMONT
CAUGHT IN TROYGeorge Mills Had Recd.
Cars In 6 Weeks

BROKE ST. JOHNSBURY JAIL

Captured at Eagle Mills, N. Y.,
Where He Was Chopping Wood

Troy, N. Y., Nov. 17.—A wild six weeks, during which he has stolen seven automobiles, participated in an automobile holdup at Danville, Vt., been arrested and lodged in the St. Johnsbury jail, from which he later escaped, and kept officers in several states on the alert for his appearance, ended in the capture here last night of George Mills, a youth of 18 who gave his home as Worcester, Mass.

Information given by a fellow laborer on a farm at Eagle Mills, a few miles from here, where Mills was working as a woodchopper, led to the man's arrest and, after arraignment before an Eagle Mills justice of the peace, the young bandit was brought here to spend his time musing in the Troy jail until the arrival of officers from St. Johnsbury, Vt., where he broke jail October 29.

Since he, and two other men, staged a sensational holdup at Danville, Vt., nearly six weeks ago Mills has had an exciting life. After enjoying a brief freedom following the Vermont escape, the man was arrested by Vermont officers at Granby, P. Q., and placed in jail at St. Johnsbury. This detention soon became irksome, however, and Mills, who is a plumber, effected an escape for himself and a companion, Gordis Lewis of Littleton, N. H., by picking a lock of the calaboose in broad daylight on a Sunday afternoon.

Lewis was caught the next night near the Twin Mountain House in the White Mountains but Mills' luck held and he escaped into the woods, leaving in possession of the authorities a Cadillac automobile which he and Lewis, another automobile bandit, had stolen after leaving St. Johnsbury.

Since that time, according to the story of the local police, Mills has stolen machines in Whitefield and Laconia, N. H., Clinton, Mass., and in this city.

Pursuit becoming too hot he abandoned his Laconia acquisition and struck out for Fitchburg, Mass., to which city he was traced by the police. His trail grew cold at that point and nothing further was heard from him until his capture here.

REPAIR SHELTER HOUSE

Metal Structure on Killington Again
Habitable

Rutland, Nov. 16.—The metal shelter house on Mount Killington, which, in spite of the effort and expense incurred in getting the material to the site of the old hotel, had been made almost uninhabitable by vandals, has again been put into condition by the Green Mountain club so that it furnishes comfortable quarters for the cold weather hiker. A good deal of work has been done about the summit by the club. The holes in the roof and sides of the camp have been repaired, the doors and windows tightened, and the stove renewed in parts that were worn. A buck saw and axe have been added to the equipment of the camp.

The summer's accumulation of rubbish, left by campers who saw fit to leave old tins and many other unsightly and unsanitary things in a pile beside the camp has been removed and conspicuous signs have been erected asking patrons of the Green Mountain club's property to have some thought for the comfort of the party which is to follow them and to carry rubbish away from the shelter. New and substantial guide boards have also been erected all about the summit, showing the location of springs and the direction taken by trails.

The house has been much used during the season. The grounds are covered to a depth of about four inches, making conditions fine for tracking. Along the Pico trail, a few hundred feet north-west of where the old Killington hotel barn formerly stood hunters come upon the fresh trail of a bear. Farther along two older tracks, one made by a very large animal, were observed. Signs of deer were not as abundant as in most years. A long partridge was living in the stunted spruces not far from the summit. The only other birds of interest seen high up on the mountain were white-winged crossbills which were abundant where spruce cones furnished them food.

AUTOPSY ON PINKHARD

Colored Man Believed to Have Died
From Exposure.

An autopsy was performed Thursday afternoon upon the body of William Pinkhard, colored, who died Wednesday night at the Putnam Memorial hospital of pneumonia. Some of the organs were taken to the state laboratory at Burlington for further examination, but it is believed that the man's death was due to exposure and not to violence.

The autopsy was performed by Dr. Charles Ravey of the state laboratory and Dr. H. W. Elliot, district health officer.

State's Attorney George A. Mathers by communicating with the police department in Kingston, N. Y., has learned that the party of negroes on their way to work on the big dam at Whitingham was picked up at a small town near Kingston by an automobile driver named Maurice Goldman who delivered all of the men except Pinkhard at their destination. Goldman informed the Kingston chief of police that the party stopped in Troy and that while passing through Pownal Pinkhard insisted upon getting out of the car. He was permitted to do so and the car went on without him.

Pinkhard was clothed in a worn army shirt, light trousers and coat and broken shoes. It is probable that he had been drinking and in this condition was susceptible to the disease that resulted in his death.

WOMEN VOTED TO HANG
MRS. CLARA PHILLIPSHad to Compromise on Second Degree
In Hammer Murder Case.

Los Angeles, Nov. 17.—Mrs. Clara Phillips acted under extreme provocation when she beat Mrs. Azorita Meadows, pretty widow, to death with a hammer, a jury decided yesterday in finding Mrs. Phillips guilty of murder in the second degree. She will be sentenced Monday.

The verdict was a compromise reached after nearly a full day's deliberations of the jury, composed of three women and nine men.

Mrs. Phillips beat the woman to death with a hammer bought in a 10-cent store after she had heard rumors regarding the intimate friendship between her husband and Mrs. Meadows.

At first all of the women and five of the men held out for hanging Mrs. Phillips.

The compromise on second degree murder was reached after eight ballots had been taken.

"We voted for second degree murder after we found it was impossible to get agreement on a straight conviction," McSwain said. "Eight of us, including the women, wanted to hang her."

"Well, it could have been a lot worse," said Mrs. Phillips to Deputy Sheriff Frank Dewar, her guard, after she had quickly recovered her composure.

She smiled at the courtroom crowd and apparently was satisfied with the result.

BEGIN ANNUAL ROLL CALL

Citizens Selected Will Meet at Bennington Club at 2 P. M.

Under a paternal government the individual citizen has little or nothing to do except obey the orders which are handed down from the hosts of officials in uniform above him. The individual is fact to face with the government at every turn. Education, recreation, hospitals, asylums, philanthropy, everything is done by the government. Once upon a time the writer of these lines conducted a party of professors from Europe through several of the colleges in and around Boston. These gentlemen found it difficult to understand that such a university as Harvard is not owned and run by the government, and that its buildings, grounds, athletic fields, boat houses, club-houses, etc., represent the enthusiastic loyalty of the alumni, and the generosity of public spirited benefactors. In America individuals take the initiative and carry the load in promoting the highest interests of the community and the nation.

What has this to do with the Red Cross Roll Call? Just this. If Bennington were in some continental European country there would be no Red Cross roll call. The plan would be considered highly absurd and impossible. The average man in the street would shrug his shoulders and mutter: "Let the government do it."

But since Bennington is in the United States, and the average American feels keenly his personal responsibility for the well being and good name of his country, it is confidently expected that the following gentlemen will report without fail at the Bennington club on Sunday afternoon next, November 19, at 2 p. m., for the purpose of canvassing of the entire town, to be completed in two hours:

W. E. Bissell, W. H. Wills, Ray Hart, Howard Estes, H. E. Pritchard, F. S. Bailey, Dean J. Martin, W. S. Boynton, Richards Kellogg, H. L. KILLS OTTER WITH HAMMER

Track Walker Secures Prize Near South Lee, Mass.

Lee, Nov. 17.—A track-walker on New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad, bagged a fine otter Wednesday morning in an unusual way.

Just below South Lee he stepped from the track as a train passed, noticed an animal in the ditch beside the track and struck it with his track-walker's hammer, which is an ordinary hammer.

The animal proved to be an otter that measured four feet, three inches in length.

Mrs. A. Delia Hoag, age 78 years, died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. M. B. Bates of North Pownal, Thursday night. Mrs. Hoag was born in North Pownal and had lived there all her life. Her husband died about six years ago.

Surviving besides her daughter are one son, George B. Hoag of Baldwinville, Mass., two sisters, Mrs. Audria Grell and Mrs. Inez Todd, both of North Adams; and four grandchildren.

The funeral will be held from the home of Mrs. Bates Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Rev. George S. Mills officiating. Interment will be in North Pownal cemetery.

I. W. W. TAKES SLAM AT
"BIG BILL" HAYWOODNational Convention Wants "No More Little Tin Gods" in Future
Power.

Chicago, Nov. 17.—The I. W. W. wants "no more little tin gods." They served notice to that effect today when the national convention adopted a ruling declaring that officers would be allowed to serve for only one year.

The action was a slam at "Big Bill" Haywood, who fled to Russia, while under sentence to Leavenworth prison for violation of the espionage act, deserting many other members of the I. W. W. who were convicted with him, and also leaving many members of the organization, who had furnished his $30,000 bail, "holding the bag."

"Never again will any individual be permitted to build up a reputation and become a tin god at the expense of the organization," said a statement issued by the convention.

The meeting is attended by 35 delegates representing all classes of workers in industries. About 200 spectators are present at each session.

Blaze at Quebec Institution Where Adelard Delorme is Confined.

Quebec, Nov. 17.—(By the Associated Press)—The Beauport Insane asylum where Adelard Delorme, former priest, is confined for murder of his half brother, caught fire today.

The blaze started in the workshops in the rear of the main building and threatened to spread. The fire was brought under control after hard fighting and did not reach the main building.

"A FOOL THERE WAS"

Famous Drama Based on Poem by Rudyard Kipling.

A most distinguished cast has been assembled to appear with Estelle Taylor in the role of a 1922 "Vamp" in "A Fool There Was," a photo-drama based on the stage play by Porter Emerson Browne—which in turn was inspired by Rudyard Kipling's famous poem, "The Vampire." This picture is announced as the attraction at the Opera house today and tomorrow.

Emmett J. Flynn, who directed "A Connecticut Yankee in King Arthur's Court," Monte Cristo, and other Fox Specials, directed this picture. Bernad McConville, associated with Mr. Flynn in several of his most important pictures, prepared the new screen adaptation of the play.

The director and the scenarist, with the technical staff of the Fox Hollywood studio, were busy for six months making this production.

Featured players were selected to fill the important roles, and of course there has been considerable interest concerning who would play the vampire. More than fifty prominent actresses were considered, and all the rest of the cast had been selected before Director Flynn chose the one woman who, in his opinion, could fill the bill as a 1922 model vampire. It is said.

Word has been received from Los Angeles that Estelle Taylor is the fortunate girl. Miss Taylor is a beautiful brunette, who is remembered especially for her work with William Farnum and in the Fox specials, "While New York Sleeps" and "Blind Wives."

The remainder of the cast includes: Schuyler the Fool—played by Lewis Stone, one of the best-known character actors on stage or screen. Mrs. Schuyler, the Fool's wife, played by Irene Rich, well-known screen star.

The Schuylers' Child—Played by Muriel Frances Dana, known as the four-year-old Bernhard of the screen. Nell Winthrop, the Fool's Sister—played by Marjorie Daw, who has been featured in many Marshall Neilan productions. Morgan—played by Mahlon Hamilton, one of the best known leading men in the country. Parmalee—played by Wallace McDonald, well-known leading man, who has been featured in big productions. Boggs—played by William V. Mong, who played Merlin in "A Connecticut Yankee in King Arthur's Court" and is recognized as a leading character man on the screen. Parks—played by Harry Lonsdale, noted for his character work with Mary Pickford and Douglas Fairbanks.

In addition to elaborate sets built and ships chartered, particular attention is given to the gowning of the women. The Fox Company states, "The gowns to be worn by Miss Taylor were especially made by Paquin and Worth of Paris and Lucile of New York. The furniture to be used in the sets was shipped by Tiffany studios, New York, to Hollywood.

"A Fool There Was" will be built on 1922 lines.

After a playmate had shot him, two of Andrew's chums stuck courtplaster over the wound and took him home telling his mother that another boy had hit him with a brick. Not until yesterday was the nature of the wound learned.

RED CROSS SERVICE

Union Meeting Sunday with Ravi
Booth as Speaker.

A special union service in the interest of the Red Cross campaign will be held next Sunday morning in the Second Congregational church.

The Baptist, two Congregational, and Methodist churches are uniting in this service. Dr. Ravi-Booth, who is town chairman of the Red Cross and was sent by the local chapter to Washington in October to the National Convention of the Red Cross will give the address. He will report the convention and bring the inspirational appeal.

In the afternoon of next Sunday the town will be canvassed by teams of men selected from the various churches. It is important, therefore, that all the people have the fullest information as to the great need and opportunity of the Red Cross, just at this time. The constituencies of the churches represented above and elsewhere are urged to be present at what promises to be a meeting of unique interest and value.

The hour of the services will be 10:30. It is expected the capacity of the church will be taxed, but a full force of ushers will provide seats for all who come on time.

RELIEF FOR NEAR EAST

Bennington Red Cross Has Quota of 300 Garments

The Bennington chapter of the American Red Cross has received the following imperative appeal from Herbert Hoover, secretary of commerce and chairman of the American Relief administration—

"An appalling situation of suffering, involving hundreds of thousands of people, who have been forced to flee from their homes in the Near East to seek refuge in lands already burdened with care has emphasized to the people of this country that the American Red Cross is our national emergency fund with which to meet great crises in disaster. The accentuation of the fall is the greater in that this particular calamity now appealing to humanity has fallen just in advance of the American Red Cross annual roll call."

The quota for the Bennington branch is 300 garments to be sent the last of next week for the relief of refugees from the Near East. All kinds of warm serviceable clothing for men, women and children, including coats, suits, dresses, underclothing, stockings and shoes. Used clothing should be cleaned and mended, shoes should be low heeled, should be put in repair and tied together in pairs, this is most important. Contributions of clothing are solicited to meet this appalling situation. They may be sent to the basement of the high school anytime during school hours, until Friday of next week, and all contributions will be gratefully received by the Bennington branch of American Red Cross for this urgent call for suffering humanity. If unable to send things to the high school, notify Mrs. E. W. Bradford, Telephone 360.

Worcester, Mass.

WAS ABANDONED BY THIEF

Cadillac Spirited away While
Owner Was on Shopping
Expedition

Chief of Police Patrick Braxell and William W. Hurley returned Thursday night from Worcester, Mass., with the four passenger Cadillac touring car belonging to Mrs. Edwards Stevens and which was stolen in Troy last Saturday afternoon.

Mrs. Stevens was in Troy on a shopping expedition and had left the car standing on Broadway in front of the R. C. Reynolds store. She was absent less than five minutes but upon her return the car had disappeared.

Mrs. Stevens returned to Old Bennington by train and notified William W. Hurley, who was "insured" for $2500. Mr. Wills informed the head office of the loss but before any search could be instituted the car was located in Worcester, Mass., through the police department of that city. The thief was not apprehended.

Mrs. Stevens' card in one of the pockets of the car was the medium of identification. The police department in Worcester called Chief Braxell by telephone for further particulars which were obtained from Mr. Wills.

One of the facts that the car belonged to Mrs. Stevens was established beyond question. Mr. Wills engaged Chief Braxell and Mr. Hurley to return the car to Bennington. It had suffered some damage while in possession of the thief.

OUR JAILS APPEALED
TO MRS. MACSWINEYWidow of Martyred Lord Mayor of Cork Enjoyed Her Short Detention.

Washington, Nov. 17.—Mrs. Muriel MacSwiney, widow of the martyred lord mayor of Cork, and sister-in-law of Mary MacSwiney now reported near death by hunger striking in a Dublin prison, really likes American jails.

The American brand is infinitely superior to the English, she said, yesterday after emerging from the capital's house of detention, where she and six other Irish women sympathizers spent 24 hours for "insulting" the British ambassador, Sir Auckland Geddes, by picketing the British embassy. She has tried 'em in both countries.

"Surely," she said, "persons who come out of American jails are better for their experience than those held in British jails."

"Over there the treatment is barbarous. The English prison system breeds criminals. Every known torture is administered to prisoners."

"But over here," she smiled at Capt. Carl Flather, the stalwart Irish cop who took her in, "all is different."

EARTHQUAKE DEAD 548

Number of Fatalities not so Large as First Reported.

Santiago, Chile, Nov. 17.—(By the Associated Press)—The revised figures given out by the minister of the interior place the total of killed in last Saturday's earthquake at 548, which is considerably below earlier reports. The number of injured is only partly estimated, the total being set at
